- Whanaungatanga

- A successful publicly funded education system will influence and contribute to a prosperous country
- Schools have a social responsibility to foster and support local communities to provide a safe, nurturing environment that maximises educational opportunities
- Collaborative and constructive working relationships between the education sector and government are critical to the successful implementation of education policy
- Schools will receive fair, equitable and adequate resourcing to enable them to achieve agreed educational aims and outcomes
- Responsibility for the public investment in education should be transparent and trustworthy
- Children should be equipped with appropriate lifelong competencies
- New Zealanders can expect teachers to provide a high quality relevant curriculum and inclusive public education system
- The governance and management of schools should be vested within local communities and Board of Trustees
- Schools will honour Te Tiriti o Waitangi
- Schools will work effectively and urgently to deliver results for Pasifika learners
- Schools will be led by effective principals
